

the journey home

i have danced within the dreamtime become a swirling golden kite, secured by my lifeline anchored in the night.

i've heard the ever shining ones calling out to me,
breathing in their silver songs i swam across the sea.

i've held onto a moon bright mane the world clenched between my thighs, as we thunder-flashed across the plains life blurring in my eyes.

upon a dragon i have flown high above the land, to find the fabled fire stone i hold within my hand.

this has been my journey home for home is where i am.